"British taxpayers as a whole discharge the burden of their taxes better than any other people in the world. If there are a few who make ingenious artificial arrangements to reduce their liability, they do so at the expense of the rest of us. That is not fair. I am going to do my best to stop it."

9. S/V SIR JOHN SIMON TALKS 50

"I would like the household round the tea-table, or the motorist buying his petrol, the income tax payer studying his unpleasant assessment paper, to remember that the contributions they are making to the country's defence are the contributions of a free people determined to maintain its freedom and ready to play its part in promoting peace by making Britain safe and strong."
