CAMERAMAN'S DOPE SHEET.

November 16th. 1940.
Night Coverage.

MAURICE FORD.

Story; Coventry Bombed.
Stock; Plus X. Number 12321.
Opposition; None...EXCLUSIVE.....at least not while I was there.
Footage roughly 550 feet.

Various shots of the Grand Little Towns' pretty houses and dwellings now a mass of ruins.
Various shots of the Minister of Home Security with Mrs. Morrison (his wife) looking around at the damage.
Various shots of Lord Dudley....Herbert Morrison...and Mrs. Morrison.
Scenes of the houses, and the Cathedral still burning.
Various shots of the soldiers clearing away the debris with the Union Jack in the background.
Long shot of Orphanage bombed.
Long shot of Hospital which was one of three to be bombed.
Medium shot of nurse with a German sárman who was recuperating in the hospital.
Close up of the Airman
Various shots of activity around the hospital.
Various shots of nurses off to a place of safety.

Generally speaking it was a complete murder night. Military objectives were untouched, only houses and the city were damaged, and the ruins of homes were repeated bombed by the following raiders who were guided by the fires.

OFFICERS HOSPITAL

Long shot of Hospital sun lounge

Nicholson walking through and joining Brother Officers
mid shot ordering drinks

Close-up Nicholson and Officers who asks him questions etc.

A very poor interview Nicholson was very difficult and shy and would not say anything about his flight or make remarks on his distinction.

He was also not feeling too good

However this will be a rather different type of thing to the usual
