

YANKS CLOSE AACHEN GAP

Bombing, this time by American Air Forces, was employed with great effect against the town of Aachen, the first German place of any size to be wrested from the enemy. Artillery joined in the attack from the ground, while U.S. infantry, east of the town, encircled the defenders. Armoured divisions were slowed up in the forest country near the town but resolutely pushed their way through. As these pictures arrived in this country news came that our Allies had surrounded Aachen, completely closing the escape gap.

(22 CU) Hundreds of German civilians who had taken refuge in the woods now gave themselves up. In growing numbers the people of Germany are learning what it is to be refugees. ~~From the little border town of Mainz~~

The Allies sent the civilian population ^{away} ~~on their way~~ to special camps behind our lines. ^{in Belgium} Although many of these Germans profess themselves glad to see the back of the Gestapo and their own army, the allies cannot take the risk of spying and sabotage so near the battle-front. In striking contrast to the fate of millions whom the Nazis once oppressed these people were humanely treated. Their removal helps to get on with the war.

~~That~~ ~~to~~ ~~some~~

YANKS CLOSE AACHEN GAP

Bombing, ^{again,} this time by American Air Forces, was employed with great effect against the town of Aachen, the first German place of any size to be wrested from the enemy. Artillery joined in the attack, ~~from the~~ ground, while U.S. infantry, ~~cut off the town,~~ encircled the defenders. Armoured divisions were slowed up in the forest country near the town but resolutely pushed their way through. As these pictures arrived in this country news came that our Allies had surrounded Aachen, completely closing the escape gap.

(22 GU) Hundreds of German ^{refugees} ~~prisoners~~ who had taken refuge in the woods now gave themselves up. ~~In growing~~

~~the number~~ ~~numbers~~ ~~the people of Germany are learning what it is to be refugees.~~ From the little border towns ~~of Mainz~~ the Allies sent the civilian population ^{away} ~~on their way~~ to special camps behind our lines. Although many of these Germans profess themselves glad to see the back of the Gestapo and their own army, the allies cannot take the risk of spying and sabotage so near the battle-front. In striking contrast to the fate of millions whom the Nazis once oppressed these people were humanely treated. Their removal helps ^{us} to get on with the war.