

on in the new world. ^{The} Business man gets away early to keep a date with the girl friend a hundred miles away, and takes a tennis racket, as if we didn't know it was just a love-set.

(three fly) The fliver doesn't look anything like a Lancaster, but the war's over. ^{Melton would be known to old} The U-boat pens in Hamburg, ~~most of the submarines which almost won the war for Germany~~ have been demolished. Scores of German bombs were pushed into the ~~pens~~ ^{Pens} ~~by Germans~~ ^{and} used for the big blow-up - the only way to ~~demolish~~ ^{smash} the heavy concrete structures in quick time. Germans made these bombs to be dropped on England and never expected them to be put to a sensible use.

So The brave new world ^{get down 2 sun} ~~includes~~ new ideas on women's hats. Not content with making husbands dip into their pockets to provide new millinery, the girls now take their men's hats, pep them up a little and turn them into creations that Paris wouldn't be ashamed of. ~~London's~~ ~~ten gallon hat is ideal for the~~ ~~age~~. Woman has often worn the trousers. Now she wants the hat ^{as well} too. It looks like a cold winter. ^{The open hat gets a new home of} ~~Seriously you wouldn't know your old~~ bowler would you? ^{life}

4 However ^{The} the new world has a lot of sensible things, ~~too~~. How about a telephone in your car? Always in touch with home wherever you ~~are~~ ^{happen to be}. Mother finds her little boy has a temperature. The doctor's out on his rounds, but the new idea enables her to get him on the phone - a boon to her, even if the doctor doesn't appreciate it.

All the same there's much to be said for the pre-telephone days. At least that's what henpecked Harry thinks, ⁵ he's doing to family shopping.

1. TITLE: GALS STEAL MEN'S HATS!
2. Men's hats go feminine! The very lid is torn off masculine individuality at the Millinery Fashion Bureau's Fally Style Show in New York.
5. Look familiar, fellows? Should! It's your old faithful Fedora, snap brim and all.
6. Here's your old derby - done over in Leopard.
7. You wear the white tie 'n tails - but she wears the Top Hat!
8. And a Western Rancher's hat comes out like this. A plain case of style's rustling!
9. The gals' skypiece stealing knows no limits. Even the hard-ridin' Texas Ranger doffs his 10 gallon sombrero to the ladies!
11. And your old Opera Hat gets cut down - and spruced up!
12. Gee, if they're gonna look that cute, let's let 'em have our old hats!
