

EDINBURGH CONFERS FREEDOM ON PRINCESS

Scotland's capital conferred its highest honour on the heirress to the throne. At Usher Hall she and ~~Princess~~ ^{Lieutenant} Mountbatten
~~Princess~~ were received by the Lord Provost, Sir John Falconer.

Even more than usual interest attends the ten-day Royal visit to Scotland; ^{At} the Princess's engagement has won her the hearts of all. Everyone in Edinburgh was naturally curious to see the former Prince Philip. Though the northern part of this island might have been more gratified had the Princess, like her father, fallen in love with a Scot there is general enthusiasm over the betrothal.

From the Lord Provost Her Royal Highness received the casket containing the document awarding her the Freedom of Edinburgh. ^{As the} Youngest Burgess, she signed the roll of freemen.
