

a notable

30

At St. Peter's, Eaton Square, there was quite ~~an~~ christening. Her Majesty's God Mother to the infant daughter of Mr. John and Lady Margaret Colville. Before marriage the mother was Lady Margaret Egerton, Lady-in-Waiting to Princess Elizabeth. The Prime Minister was God Father. Mr. Colville is his private secretary. The baby is starting life in quite a way.

Holiday Camp King Billy Butlin escorted the Duke of Edinburgh to the microphones at the Albert Hall. Camp collections for the National Playing Fields Association resulted in a cheque for 7,-thousand-pounds.

With the goodwill of the campers, plus the cheque, His Royal Highness left the hall after a profitable visit.

Westminster Hospital supplied the nurses who attended the late King. The Queen Mother made a typically gracious gesture when she attended to present ~~an award to~~ Nurse Pennale with the ~~Practical Nursing Gold Medal~~ Practical Nursing Gold Medal, Rosemary Almond with a silver medal and other/awards to 89 nurses.

Royal encouragement to hard workers in a noble profession.

Attending a performance at the French Film Festival the Queen was received by Mme Massigli and her husband the French Ambassador, at the Realto Cinema. 5-year-old Brigitte Fossey, ^{youngest} French film star, presented her bouquet, though she forgot her ~~own~~ well rehearsed question, how are you? Princess Margaret was unfortunately prevented from attending by a gastric chill. Among stars present were Martine Carol, Simone Simon and the very beautiful Danielle Godet. But the most fascinating figure of the evening was undoubtedly the Queen herself, a truly royal and resplendent ~~figure~~ in a three-quarter-length white ermine coat and striking dress of gold lace brocade.

330