

UNO ASSEMBLY

"The 412th meeting of the Assembly ^{is} first ~~is~~ called to order. There is only one item on our Agenda this afternoon, a statement by the President. Before making that statement, which will be a very short one, I should like to read to the assembly a communication which I received this morning from the President of the United States. It reads as follows: 12 feet lead in 'My dear Mr. Pearson. It is a pleasure to welcome to the United States the delegates to the 7th Session of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

The United Nations has already accomplished much - I hope that it will grow in spirit and become an increasingly effective instrument of peace. The achievement of a just and durable peace is essential to all that makes life worth living. This task involves not only the building of effective security, it entails much intelligence and much idealism on the whole broad principle of the... great opportunity to advance the cause of peace. The world will watch your deliberations with deep interest and high hopes. I wish you Godspeak. Sincerely, Dwight D. Eisenhower.' (applause)

UNO TRIES AGAIN

Passenger to New York//awaited by quite a reception committee// in the least was Foreign Minister Vyshinski, not ~~ambassador~~ put out by demonstrating Jews, Russian and Polish exiles, who don't like him a bit. The recent anti-Jewish campaign in Moscow has angered millions of former friends of Russia.

30

However, safe conduct was guaranteed. (At U.N.O. familiar figures included Mrs. Pandit, sister of Premier Nehru, and our own representative Sir Gladwyn Jebb.
Senator Lodge is one of the new American delegates.
Nothing stormy was expected, the day's proceedings being confined to a formal opening of the session.
Presiding was Canadian Foreign Minister Lester Pearson.
He read a message from ~~General~~ Eisenhower.

Pres.