	A singular event took place in Piazza Venezia today when the roman charriots in bronze which are part of the Victor Emanuel II monument were overhauled after about twenty years since they were examined. This monument also holds the shrine of the Italian Unknown Soldier. The overhauling consisted in the examination and replacement of iron braces the painting of same and the cleaning of the bronze parts of the charriots which are one on either side of the monument at a height of about 95 Meters from the ground. A beautiful panorama of the city of Rome can be had from this spot: St Peter's, the Coliseum etc. The workmen who do this type of job certainly do not suffer from vertigo. The size of these statues can be realized if one thinks that four persons can dine at a table set inside each of the horses with some room to spare.
