

ETON: IT'S THAT WALL AGAIN

Old Etonians said it was the sunniest St. Andrews' day they could remember. If we find American football hard to understand, what on earth can ~~we~~ ^{anybody} make of the celebrated Wall Game? Obviously the players know what they're after but when it comes to explaining it, they're all at sea. We could ask this chap, but perhaps not. At half-time, or whatever the call it, opinion seemed to be that the Oppidans were on top ~~and~~ ⁱⁿ this game that really means on top. If there's anybody playing you don't like, it's a glorious game.

The poor ball escaped once, but didn't get away for long.

We agree with you, sir, absolutely.... No goals, Oppidans ^{but} ~~beat~~ ^{beat}
