

FLASH I

7

The Duke of Edinburgh, Grand Master of the Guild of Air Pilots and NR Navigators of London, went to the Mansion House to receive from the Lord Mayor the grant of LIVERY living to the Guild.

Alderman Sir Cuthbert Ackroyd.

55

THE DUKE REPLIED IN CHARACTERISTIC FASHION

LORD MAYOR

SV This livery demonstrates that the guild of air pilots and navigators ---
----- and that the city is pleased to foster enterprise and technical skill.
? Mr. Chamberlain may be faced with the problem when appears at the Guildhall for introduction the atomic pilot.

SV ~~to day~~ I have the honour and very great pleasure of handing to your Highness the charter of liverymen of the guild of pilots and navigators of the City of London.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH

SCU In granting the livery of the guild the City has shown once again that it is well aware of --- development and I think it also recognises that air is the new means of transport and utmost importance to this great centre of enterprise and for its part the guild/^{would}always, my Lord Mayor, would always attempt to show that everybody engaged in the air transport industry will constantly try to help and to perform its duties --- and to be active and helpful partners of the business interests of this city and of the welfare of the nation as a whole.

LV My Lord Mayor we undertake not to introduce George and any of his ^{mechanical} navigator assistants until the Lord Mayor of London is a robed Robot.