

CHESTER REGIMENT.

250

Boys of the young brigade were in great form at the Castle when they entertained visitors to a gymnastic and general fitness display. On the parallel bars they tried to break their necks, and in the quarter staff display they tried to break each others. Anyway, who wouldn't join the army? Sometimes it'd be a pleasure to be shot --- especially if this is the kind of girl you leave behind you.

CORK MOTOR RACING.

Many famous racing drivers took part in the motor road racing near Cork. Bends and hairpins packed with excited spectators --- long stretches of straight taken with throttle wide open --- R.E.Tongue was the winner of a thrilling day's racing.

BRITISH LEGION RALLY.

The rally and Drumhead service in Sandon Park was attended by hundreds of ex-Servicemen who with their standards made an impressive parade. The Earl of Harrowby took the salute at the march past and many ex-Servicemen from foreign countries --- guests of Lord Harrowby --- watched them with interest. A return visit of British ex-Servicemen to the Continent has been arranged.

USSURI AGROUND.

A terrific crash in the early morning awaoke the town of Seaford and told the inhabitants that the Russian cargo ship Ussuri had come to call --- and stay awhile. Four thousand tons of her ran up the beach --- smashed through a groyne and came to rest against the promenade. Thirteen hours later she was pulled off, but not before she had provided a sightseeing tour and a topic of conversation.

British stars appeared in the French inter club championship ---among them Fred Perry playing France's left handed ace Boussus. The result was a surprise to the tennis world, for Perry went down 6-4, 6-8, 6-2.

APPLE BLOSSOM.

Bloom has come late to Britain following the frosty spring, but now the countryside is beginning to look its best. Our Roving Cameraman heard the voice of Nature in the Midlands and filmed this delightful blossom round Binton and Stourbridge.

22nd CHESHIRE. REGIMENT.

The 22 nd Cheshire Regiment on a physical fitness parade, first of all tried to break their own necks and then each others'. In the army now it seems it'd be almost a pleasure to be shot --- especially if this is the girl you left behind you. Gas masks are becoming quite the fashionable wear apparently --- for the Paris underwater club is testing a new mask to enable you to stay submerged for over an hour. Just the thing to wear when looking for a Budget leak.

OXFORD v CAMBRIDGE FENCING.

Oxford and Cambridge show how even fencing has become mechanized. After putting on a thing to keep off the flies in hot weather they do this --- not to hold themselves back in case they get too rough, but to form electric contact between the point of the epee and a sort of wireless set. In the old days of fencing when a hit was scored you shouted Touché --- but nowadays the set rings a bell and you shout "The set's gone wrong!"

MODEL PLANES.

To-day everybody is air-minded and those who are too young to fly to the Cape hold model aeroplane meetings. If you're flying to the Cape and anything goes wrong you have to come back to England for spares but with a rubber engine if anything goes wrong you wait ~~until~~ until your sister's gone to bed and sneak her suspenders.
