

Shelled by the insurgent's army's artillery and bombed by its 'planes, captured Irun ~~now~~ presents a sorry spectacle. San Sebastian too has fallen, but the holiday resort known to so many foreign visitors as a gay and beautiful place has not shared the fate of Irun --- ~~San Sebastian still bears some resemblance to its former self.~~ The Government forces ~~xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx~~ left without resistance and the Carlist troops, entering in triumph, were greeted with wild cheering by the civilian population ~~which had sided with the insurgents against the Government.~~ ~~sided with the uprising.~~ From the Government side come reports of a tragedy so overwhelming as to defy description. The historic fortress of the Alcazar, ~~xxxxxxxxxxxx~~ beleaguered for two months, has been mined and blown to pieces, ~~with 1400 souls inside it.~~

BROOKLANDS.

Crowds at Brooklands watched a terrific battle between the leading drivers --- and to-day the leading drivers include many laddes. But the laurels for the five hundred miles ^{went to a man} ~~go to the men~~ --- Freddie Dixon in No. 12 hurled himself round the track to win

Now see how Colorado holds a hill-climb. Pike's Peak is 14,000 feet up and the winner got to the top in sixteen and a half minutes. What he did then we don't know because there's nothing to do when you get there. But higher still were the 'planes competing in the Thomson Trophy. The distance was 150 miles, the speed was 300 miles an hour and the winner was a Frenchman. The Trophy was presented by Eddie Cantor.
