

Thus General Lassere introduced their new Commanding Officer Colonel Burleux to the Republican Guards, but most people never understand an introduction anyway. Then followed an imposing parade.

TURKEYS.

Attleborough Turkey Sale is the biggest of its kind and this year the record number of 8,000 were auctioned and all fetched high prices. A good outlook for trade but not so good for the housewife. All the best Turkeys come here just before Christmas but there must be something wrong with the place --- when they've been here once they never come again.

552. Taking shape in John Brown's Yard at Clydebank --- the berth for 552, the new Cunarder, sister ship of the Queen Mary. Preparation are going ahead for laying the keel and we wish her luck --- may she make plenty of work <sup>for</sup> those who need it.

SPRAYING DRESSES.

Another of the latest fashions from Paris, where many of the fashions are so late they never reach us at all., thank goodness. In this one the smart girl changes her dress by vaporising, instead of by the ordinary method. <sup>of taking it off & putting on another one.</sup> Imagine the girl who went to tea at the Vicar's and vaporised into a bathing costume.

TROTTINETTE RACE.

150 young competitors took part in the annual car race in the Tuilleries Gardens. The most popular vehicle this year was the trottinette, and it looks exciting too. The only trouble is that they're apt to get mixed.
