

297
PARLIAMENT.

Parliament has reassembled after ~~three~~ three months recess, so no wonder the place needed a ~~brush~~ brush up. One of the early arrivals was Squadron Leader Wright, new member for Erdington, while here is Mr Geoffrey Lloyd, Home Under Secretary. Mr Neville Chamberlain as usual looked calm and self-possessed ~~which is quite a feat for a~~ ~~and~~ and Mr Baldwin, we're glad to see, appears in good health in spite of rumours. Well, Parliament is back again. I wonder what they'll do ^{to} ~~for~~ us this time.

M.C.C.

The Steamship Orion entering the harbour at Fremantle was the real start of the cricket season, but of these two, Farnes and Wyatt, we regret that Wyatt has had an unfortunate accident. Ames, on the left of Hammond, is also absent hurt. G.O. Allen, the gallant ~~captain~~ captain is undaunted however, as he puts the team through its paces in net practice at Parth. Here's hoping for better luck, ~~than has been allotted to the M.C.C. so far.~~

ANGLING COMPETITION.

Well, it was a nice day for the angling competition and Eastbourne's popular Mayor, Miss Thornton, showed it was possible to catch something else besides a cold. Who's there? Langham? Langham who? Langham Place? Eh --- Langham were never caught --- 'e give 'isself oop!