KINCARDINE-ON-FORTH BRIDGE.

Scotland proudly claims a new member for the fellowship of the world's great~~est~~ engineering marvels --- the Kincardine-on-Forth Bridge, more than half a mile long. Representatives of the counties of Fife, Stirling and Clackmannan simultaneously performed the opening ceremony. A marvel of steel and reinforced concrete, it will save hours in time and thousands of pounds in money for a vast bulk of Scotland's road ~~tra~~ traffic. Half a gale rocked our cameras as they perched ~~per~~ precariously aloft to secure these fine pictures.
