KING WETH THE FLEET.

Very bad weather greeted His Majesty when he arrived at Portland for a visit to his Fleet. and the King drove in a borrowed car through flodded streets. Nevertheless the complete programme was carried out without alteration --- first a visit of inspection to the Royal Sovereigh That evening was spent by His Majesty on board H.M.S.Courageous, the aircraft carrier. This was not an inspection but a smoking concert. The Royal visitor waxxentertainedxxhyxthexxhiptexeempany watched a h show that proved once again that the British sailor can do anything. A leading stoker can even do a snake dance The next day the Fleet presented a magnificent spectacle dressed in Portland Marbour as King Edward arrived for various inspections at the coaling jetty. Submarines were not forgotten in his Majesty's exhaustive tour of the Silent Service -- and A last inspection on board H.M.S.Faulknor concluded the visit. His Majesty expressed great satisfaction with all that he had seen. The appearance of ships and men, he said, was excellent --- Royal mongratulations for our wonderful Navy.
