

GENERAL GOUGH.

304

Eighteen years after the Armistice the Fifth Army met again, ~~celebrating~~ <sup>to pay tribute to</sup> ~~the public vindication of its commanding officer~~ General Sir Hubert Gough. And General Gough replies.

ARMY v. NOTRE DAME.

At the Yankee Stadium Uncle Sam's Army, <sup>cadets</sup> put on a special parade before the match against Notre Dame. Then the game started <sup>with Notre Dame kicking off</sup> and they began to burn up the bars of the grid-iron. Watch the spectacular kicking and accurate passing in this match which drove 80,000 fans to a frenzy. Army ball. The ball goes down to the full back and a terrific pass dead to the man sets the Army front line moving. See the next ~~tricky~~ movement as the ball comes out again for a break through and another great run. <sup>Army's</sup> ~~Notre Dame's~~ ball now... and <sup>to save standing, but despite the Clark minute</sup> a flashing run through leaves ~~the Army standing and notches a win by~~ <sup>heads to Army lost by 6 to 20</sup> ~~20 to 6~~. The end of the match is reserved for the spectators who go in and score a goal on their own account.

FUR FASHIONS.

Here is the answer to Old Man Winter --- and the answer is more expensive than a breach of promise. Coats and capes to the value of 150,000 dollars are on view in New York's most exclusive salon, for it is National Fur Week. In America they have lovely fur coats to protect them from Winter's blizzards. So do we, but you can't see them for the fog,
