

TEST MATCH ...

323

Australia won the toss again in the Fourth Test Match and went in to bat on a perfect wicket. When Bradman was out for twenty six things looked bright. / McCabe again made top score with 88 but Australia's first innings closed for only 288. ^ A win for England meant the rubber and the Ashes, and they started well. ^ Barnett made 92; bringing the score with Leyland's help to within 114 runs of the Australian total. . . . a great effort.

TROOPING THE COLOUR.

Khartoum --- His Excellency the Governor General Sir Stewart Symes, representing His Majesty King George VI, took the salute at the ceremony of trooping the colour by the 2nd Battalion The Essex Regiment.

WESTWAY MOTHERS.

Shepherd's Bush --- Mothers whose children have to cross the unrestricted road known as Westway have tried different ways of drawing attention to their troubles. Now with placards they are crossing and re-crossing the road in swarms. They also sent O.H.M.S postcards to Mr Hore Belisha.

FORT KNOX GOLD.

Fort Knox --- six hundred miles from the Atlantic coast Uncle Sam buried his store of gold. Armed patrols and mechanized units escorted it to its new home ^{which is big enough for all the gold in the world.} As a protection against civil war, foreign invasion and gangsters the bullion is protected by electrified fences, gas-filled steel barricades and machine guns. Compare the Bank of England --- the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street doesn't even carry an umbrella.
