

RUGBY INTERNATIONAL.

Scotland took the field first in the Rugby International against Ireland and their supporters were there in great force and with bagpipes. / This match, which Ireland won by 11 points to 3, was played under the most wintry conditions but in spite of the North East wind a big crowd stayed to the end. / Perhaps the high spot of the match was the effort of McMann who broke through to score --- from the Irish half a great run took the home side over the Scottish border for a try, though Bailey failed at the kick.

CLYDE v DUNDEE.

Shawfield Park --- and the Third Round of the Scottish Cup. Clyde in white shirts and dark shorts faced Dundee in dark shirts and white shorts. The game throughout was a ding dong battle --- Dundee perhaps having a little ^{the} better of the game. But in a grim fight where there was little to choose, no goals were scored. So for them a trip to Round Four meant also a replay.
