

JEWISH EX-SERVICEMEN'S PARADE.

In memory of those who gave their lives for Britain, two V.C.'s laid a wreath upon the Cenotaph. And assembled upon the Horse Guards' Parade were many thousands of British Jews come to pay homage to their fallen comrades. The Earl of Athlone and Mr Hore Belisha were present. Then - the last part

The service ended --- and then followed the march down Whitehall to the Cenotaph --- column upon column of marching feet in the gathering gloom of a late autumn day --- recalling the memory of those who passed beyond the shadows --- of those who march no more.
