WEDDING OF THE QUEEN'S NIECE.

The Church of St Margarets, Westminster has seen many a fashionable wedding --- but this one attracted a record crowd of London sightseers. The King and Queen and the two Princesses were among the guests at the ceremony, for it was the wedding of the Queen's niece, Miss Anne Bowes-Lyon, and Viscount Anson.

The bride arrived with her grandfather, the Earl of Strathmore who is, of course, the Queen's father. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the ceremony --- and the sun came out to greet the bride and groom as they walked from the church, through a guard of honour from the Grenadiers.

MME. TABOUIE.

Croydon ---The mystery woman of France has arrived in London on a secret mission. She is Madame Tabouie, the famous French journalist, and she was met by the Editor of the Sunday Referee. This amazing French woman has the reputation of getting hold of the ~~news~~ world's political news before anyone else knows it. Even before Hitler and Mussolini.
