

GRAND PRIX.

International stars met at Rheims for the Automobile Club Grand Prix. Sixty four laps of a difficult, dangerous circuit --- yet they hurkd the great cars round the course at 100 miles an hour. In this race the quickness of the eye and the hand must co-incide or else --- watch them skid! Von Brauchitz was the winner at 110 miles an hour. That's modern racing -- this is the traditional race at Siena. It dates back to the 14th century. Mattresses pad the corners of the course, but the riders ride bareback, ~~possibly~~ having no corners to bother about. The race is run exactly as it was about six hundred ~~years~~ years ago --- but in 1938 they had a fight about it.
