

DUBLIN HORSE SHOW.

481

It seems that everybody is in Dublin when the Horse Show is on-- O'Connell Bridge and the River Liffey see more people pass in half an hour than in a week of ordinary times. They all concentrate at Balls Bridge where the Horse Show is held --- fair ladies and ^{military} ~~foreign~~ uniforms catch ~~the~~ the eye, according to ^{which} ~~what~~ you fancy. And here's some trotting --- picturesque enough to satisfy the most critical. And plenty of jumping too. But the big event of the day is the Grand International Jumping Competition for the Aga Khan Cup. Six nations competed, watched by President Hyde, the President of the Show and Mr De Valera. This year England and Ireland are much more friendly and the English team ~~gxxxxxxx~~ ~~xxxxxxx~~ were given a great welcome. But that's all they were given. The Irish team won the Cup --- ~~a brilliant display, rewarded with presentation by the President.~~

POLICE SPORTS.

The City of London Police Athletic Club chose a very hot day to make themselves hotter --- at the White City Stadium they held their annual sports. One event was the eighty metres hurdles --- open to ^{all} Ladies with County Qualifications. It's disappointing if you thought they were all policewomen. ~~Sorry~~ can't park there, Miss. One of the best events was the 100 yards Members Handicap. They all ran fast --- but none so fast as our cameraman, and mind you --- he's going backwards.
