

BLIND GOLFER.

New York --- here is the portrait of an indomitable sportsman. Dr Oxenham was blinded in the Great War but he still plays golf, and what's more he goes round in the eighties. He lives in Sussex--- but visiting America he played a game with Believe-it-or-not Ripley. His chauffeur gives the doctor verbal instructions and this amazing golfer does the rest.

NATIONAL HOLIDAY IN GREECE.

Greece --- the Prime Minister celebrated the National Holiday with a few thousand others at a display of folk dancing. The groups represented different Greek provinces and in their gay costumes they made an enchanting scene. In fact it was the Greek equivalent of the Lambeth Walk.

BASEBALL.

Los Angeles --- it's the annual charity match of the motion picture world, and Mary Pickford started the ball rolling. Thanks for the memory. Very few people in this country understand ~~xxxxxxx~~ ~~xxxx~~ the rules of baseball, but it looks very difficult. ~~xxxxxxx~~ ~~You're not going to stand that?~~ Mitchell and Durante are the hitters --- what a swipe, but luckily Buster Keaton is in the field --- Infact, he's in the outfield.
