STACK WEDDING.

Enthusiasm and crowds in Glasgow attended the wedding of Lord David Douglas-Hamilton and Miss Prunella Stack, ^{and} ~~and~~ ~~of~~ ~~the~~ ~~Health~~ and Beauty Girls of whom Miss Stack is leader sent a strong deputation. The bride herself is a picture of young British girlhood --- she arrived with her uncle Colonel Alexander Cruickshank who gave her away. Cameras clicked and whirred outside the great Cathedral of St Mary's

Real The bride, lovely though she was, did not attract all the attention, ~~at this wedding~~, for the bridegroom wore the striking Stuart tartan. The reception was held in St Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, and the guests included the leading names in Scottish society. ~~And though our cameras were too far to get at this ceremony~~ ~~where a handsome young Scottish nobleman took a lovely bride,~~ Among the display of presents laid out for inspection was a gift from the Prime Minister and Mrs Chamberlain. There followed the ceremony of cutting the cake before bride and groom left for their honeymoon in the Western Isles.
