

502
WOMEN TERRIERS.

Chelsea --- ~~At the Dept of War's Headquarters~~ the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service <sup>on</sup> parade --- Their smartness and efficiency seems to indicate that when it comes to soldiering the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

WATERLOO BRIDGE.

London --- work continues on Waterloo Bridge and soon the Thames will have another crossing worthy of its great tradition.
But for the present Waterloo Bridge is just an unwieldy mass of steel and stone --- a jangle of discordant notes that will eventually become welded into another modern symphony --- we hope.

QUEEN MARY DOCKS.

New York --- When the giant Cunarder Queen Mary docks at the end of a voyage she needs about twelve tugs. But ~~as~~ her captain Commodore Irving was faced with a strike of tugboatmen and he had to choose between keeping his passengers on board indefinitely or docking without aid. He brought the great ship safely alongside under its own power --- a wonderful feat of seamanship.

GARBO.

New York --- It was a headline story when Garbo returned after her European holiday; newsreel and newspapermen crowded round the great Swedish star and she smiled her gaunt and enigmatic smile, expressing no wish to be alone. But when asked about <sup>the possibility of a</sup> ~~her possible~~ marriage to Stowkowski she wouldn't even talk Swedish.
