

ENGLAND V IRELAND AT OLD TRAFFORD.

Between ~~20,000~~ 30 and 40,000 spectators gathered at Old Trafford to see the 53rd match between England and Ireland, and a bit of auld Ireland was there to see the fun. It is 13 years since an International was played here, when Scotland beat England by the only goal scored, England are the team all in white, and they won the toss. After six minutes they took the lead, and the ball went to Lawton who was unmarked, and he drove the ball high into the net, scoring the first goal for England. Then the home side continued to press, and Hall ~~perfor~~ performed the hat trick in three minutes. There was fine method in the English attack, and their wide sweeping advances had the Irish halves and backs puzzled. The final score was England 7 goals, Ireland nil. Perhaps it will be Ireland's turn next time -
