FAROUK AND FARIDA.

A picturesque function in Cairo is the State Opening of Parliament --- the young King Farouk drives through the streets in a procession that vaguely resembles London's own opening ceremony. But only vaguely. This was also the occasion of a celebration in the royal household --- the birth of a daughter to Queen Farida. It was marked by a military parade in the true Egyptian manner.

A procession in Poland too. A military parade to mark the National Holiday. Marshal Rydz Smigly took the salute in Warsaw when infantry and other troops passed in review.
