MR CHAMBERLAIN.

The Prime Minister left No. 10 Downing Street for another of his famous trips abroad. This time he was visitin^Rome for a man-to-man talk with Signor Mussolini. At Victoria Station he was met by Britain's Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax. ~~The~~ chief object of the visit is peace in Europe --- with special ~~xxx~~ regard to ending the war in Spain. Our cameraman travelled across channel with the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary and secured these exclusive pictures --- symbolical of the man at the helm. And Mr Chamberlain picked up a pair of glasses to look ahead --- let us hope that he sees something to give cause for optimism. Britain's representatives sailed on the crack cross channel ship SS Canterbury, and the sea was obligingly calm. At Calais, Mr Chamberlain and Lord Halifax disembarked --- to be greeted affectionately by representatives of France. It was an occasion of smiles --- and the train pulled out amid ~~the~~ expressions of goodwill in French. On their way to ^Rome the travelling statesmen halted for three hours in Paris. At the Gare du Nord they were greeted by M. Daladier and M. Barnett. And the world looked on hoping for a happy ending to this journey in the cause of peace.
