

RUGBY.

529

The ~~ground was~~ ^{ground was} packed with sixty thousand spectators for the match between England and Wales--- and they included plenty of ~~Welshmen~~ Welshmen with encouraging signs. ~~at~~ The game though exciting, was scrappy. The muddy condition of the ground made open work very difficult --- the majority of thrills came from brilliant, determined tackling. England as usual were playing in white, but after romping for ten minutes they weren't fit to be seen. There was only one movement that really brought results --- in the second half Teden ran through to score a try for England ---it was unconverted --- but England won by three points to nil. Now for a nice cake of soap.