ARAB DELEGATES.

London --- Some picturesque visitors from abroad who are here on business. They are the Arab Delegates who have come over for the Palestine Conference. It is to be hoped that some of these man-to-man talks which are so popular now may effect a solution to the difficulties of that land of controversy. The Delegates include the Emir Faisal, second son of King Ibn Saud.

KING CHARLES.

London --- at Charing Cross, as well as in the City and in 105 Churches throughout Britain, services have been held on the anniversary of the execution of King Charles I. King Charles the Martyr said at his trial --- "It is the liberty and the freedom of the people of England I stand for." That freedom we still treasure, for it is the greatest possession of mankind. Churches in New York and other American cities also held commemoration services on the same day.

KING'S RETURN.

King's Cross --- Crowds awaited the arrival of the Royal Family on their return to London from Sandringham. The King and Queen and the two Princesses left by car for Buckingham Palace, and Queen Mary drove to Marlborough House. Large crowds had gathered to welcome them and give a cheer on their return to the capital.
