

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR.

The years fly round on the wheel of time and bring us again to the British Industries Fair --- Britain's annual display of her industries' progress and her shop window to the world.

Her Majesty the Queen ~~was present~~ showed great interest in the fashion show at Earl's Court --- Her Majesty herself, as usual, was dressed with her unfailing sense of dignity and charm.

The display this year had many novel angles --- some styles were modern and some borrowed ideas from yesterday --- all rather confusing to a mere man. ~~skirts~~ layers of petticoats are returning to fashion --- for the benefit of very modern typists we may explain that they are a sort of skirt with several carbon copies.

On the following day Queen Mary ^{the Duke of Kent} visited the Olympia section of the Fair. ~~Her Majesty was the first to visit it.~~ It has been estimated that during 38 visits to the Fair Queen Mary has walked a total of ~~over~~ 100 miles. Yes --- she is wonderful.
