LIFEGUARDS.

Once a year the bathing belles of Florida take a sweet revenge. All the other 364 days they spend their time parading in front of a lot of men, to be judged for beauty or something; now they're in the judges' place, and the beach lifeguards are being judged. Aren't they cute? Baby, take a bow! ~~They~~, ~~like~~? They like that one. The winner is a man named Ken Griffiths, ~~and the prize he gets calls for a cooling off.~~ They cool him off & then hot him up.

But after that those girls get back to their old tricks again— this time it's archery under the water. The trouble is there's no point in it, and that's why they break the target.

~~Back to the land!~~ A rickshaw race winds up our boy and girl story.

In San Francisco, girls of all nations give the word ~~taxi~~ to start in all languages. And this picture proves that when a girl says "Go ahead" the same thing happens in any language.
