

DUCHESS OF KENT. 544

London --- great excitement in the Francis Holland School at Regent's Park, for the Duchess of Kent is paying a visit. Her Royal Highness had previously promised a visit, but had been compelled to postpone it owing to her journey to Athens. The Duchess was in particularly happy mood this day; and she set another new fashion, this time with a veil with cut-out velvet ^{on} the cheeks.

KING GEORGE'S TOMB.

Windsor --- After dedication in the presence of members of the royal family, the tomb of King George V was placed on view to members of the public. The tomb itself is the work of Sir Edwin Lutyens, the figure of our late king, in Admiral's uniform with Garter Robes, is by Sir William Reid Dick.

PRINCE OF IRAN.

Egypt --- the Crown Prince of Iran, in Cairo for his wedding to Princess Fawzia, sister of King Farouk, made an extensive tour of the city while waiting for the happy date. Prince Shahpur was accompanied by high officials and members of the Government, and they showed him all the museums.
