

KING IN NEW YORK.

Further pictures of the Royal visit to New York show the scenes at Sandy Hook where the King inspected a guard of honour before ~~ix~~ embarking on the destroyer Warrington. The coast artillery at Fort Hancock had been reviewed, ~~There~~ although it was still only early morning. The Queen received many ~~many~~ bouquets --- Her Majesty has won all American hearts with her unfailing charm. Then the Warrington swung towards Manhattan, accompanied by an escort of small craft, and greeted by the spectacle of fire-floats and the sound of sirens. It was the first visit of a king of England to New York, and the skyscrapers each look down upon the Battery landing stage with a thousand eyes and a hundred cameras.

~~As they entered the city.~~ Along the West side Highway, their Majesties were driven with an escort of G-Men and Speed cops. At 72nd Street the royal cavalcade turned into Central Park where eager children had gathered to see them, ~~And with the happy voices of young America ringing in their ears,~~ ^{as they} ~~the King and Queen~~ drove on towards the wonder of the New World's Fair.
