

FRENCH FLEET

574

After the Naval Week At Le Havre, the French Atlantic Fleet sailed for Brest under the command of Vice Admiral Genseul. And on the way they performed spectacular exercises, with torpedoes, planes, and an attack by destroyers under smoke screen

DUBLIN OLD CROCKS.

All the old cars came out of retirement for Race day and the Lord Mayor was checking them out. . It was a great day for motorists and pedestrians too and motor cyclist Stanley Woods was another famous son of Ireland in the crowd

It's wonderful what a breath of the country air can do for these veterans --- when they get their tyres on the road once more they look twenty years younger. But the costumes of drivers and passengers were so real that it was small wonder if the cars thought they were back in 1906

Well --- that's the veterans race. And to finish it our cameraman travelled in one of the ancient cars --- you can tell that by the bumps. In fact, you can almost feel them.

copy and on paper