R.A.F.WEDDING.

These two R.A.F. pilots rescued Captain Schofield and his crew, when the freighter Kensington Court was sunk by a submarine. Now one of them --- Flight Lieutenant Thurston Smith, is in the news again --- his wedding to Miss Babbara Cook took place at All Saints' Church, Isleworth. And there were big crowds to give a cheer for the bride, and the pilot who made flying history, with the first air-rescue of a shipwrecked crew.

Other officers and men of the Royal Air Force are in France, and they seem to be quite at home already. British and French soldiers struck up a great friendship in the last war --- it looks as if the younger generation carried on the tradition.

The focus of world attention swings for a while to Turkey. Turkish troops on manoeuvres show that these fighting men under the crescent flag, have all the mechanized equipment required by a modern army. The Turkish Foreign Minister has travelled to Moscow to discuss matters with the Soviet Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs. Turkey has already declared her intention of remaining neutral.
