POLISH DESTROYERS .

Somewhere ~~at~~ the East Coast there are three Polish destroyers. They are carrying out their duties with the British Fleet --- and they are proving themselves a ^{great} valuable asset. They dodged the German warships when they escaped from Gdynia at the beginning of the war ⁱⁿ 1939---- and they have since been in action successfully against Nazi Planes and U-Boats. On the day after these pictures were taken one of the destroyers picked up ~~many~~ survivors of the British merchant vessel Sheaf Crest. The Sheaf Crest fell a victim to the epidemic of mines laid by Nazis off the South-east coast. Many of the survivors were injured in the explosion, some of them being stretcher cases. The Sheaf Crest was a vessel of just under three thousand tons.
