

KING SOLOMON'S TOMB.

643

An expedition headed by Professor Montet of the University of Strasbourg discovered in the Nile Valley the tomb of King Solomon's father-in-law. From what we know of King Solomon's married life, there must be a good many other places where his father-in-law was buried. Silver and gold objects found in the sarcophagus were the personal possessions of the Pharaoh.

HAT FASHIONS.

The latest in hats from across the Atlantic. It seems that in the land where peace is fashions are just as astonishing as ever. Here is a very attractive model --- ~~it looks as if~~ it might have come out of that tomb. Well, if you aren't wearing a uniform you might like to choose one of these. Take a squint at this one.
