ALLIED WAR COUNCIL

It was in London that the sixth meeting of the Supreme War Council was held. General Sir Edmund Ironside was one of those who attended for Great Britain, others being members of the War Cabinet and the Chiefs of the other fighting services.

France was represented by her new Prime Minister, M. Reynaud and by the Allied Commander in Chief General Gamelin. The outstanding feature of the meeting was the ~~surprise~~ declaration which was issued to the effect that neither Britain nor France would negotiate for ~~any~~ peace ~~without~~ except by mutual agreement. ~~It was also declared that after the conclusion of peace the two Allies would continue their joint policy for~~
