FRANCE FALLS.

After six weeks of total waf, France has signed a separate armistice with Germany and Italy. Her troops were outnumbered --her equipment was hopelessly inferior. The Government of M. Reynaud was displaced from office --- in its place came the Government of Petain --- an old, old man of 84. Under the terms of the Armistice, the Petain Government agreed to give up all means of supporting France as an independent nation. All her armaments of every kind in France and in her Colonies the men of Bordeaux agreed to hand over to the dictators or destroy --- her planes, her fleet and her ports which would be used against her ally, Great Britain. Truly the spirit of France has died in these men of Bordeaux. But even treachery cannot quench in the hearts of men the flame that burns for liberty. We know that France has endured the agonies of death. Let us never forget when we face our own hour of trial that armistice will mave none of the agonies de

High Barrielis product that dotted in the second of the struggle; as each country falls to the march of ruthless aggression, it leaves a remnant of its armies still to cherish the hope of ultimate victory. And it leaves behind under the heel of the tyrant, a far greater mass of unhappy and desperate men who await only the hour to overthrow their monstrous oppression.

FRANCE FLLIS. (2)

Contraction of the local division of the loc

In London, General de Gauule has called on Frenchmen to fight on From the French Colonies have come assurances that the war is not yet ended for France --- From Morocco under General Nogues

676

In the

From Syria, under General Mittelhauser. Britain welcomes this promise of aid. But from now on let Britain know that she alone can whn this war. In all the accumulated might of centuries, Britain must strive for victory by her own power.

"editerranean, the education is and bowards the dictations, but we shall remain unshakable." The <sup>K</sup>ock of Gibraltar has siners stood throughout our history as the symbol of the steadfastness of this great unconquerable <sup>E</sup>mpire. That rocks and still be standing when tyrants are buried in dishonour

FIL FROVE THE TEEL STREET,