BEAR CUBS.

These charming people are in the News- They're bearing up and doing very well for themselves at Whipnade Zoo.

Of course they're only babies as yet- and they need a lot of attention. And they get it from their lady keeper- one of two women who are taking charge of the 6 cubs at Whipnade.

Its time for a meal- and don't they just love a taste of milk and honey- that's why they're called Honey Bears.

Steady now. Wait for it. There's no need to be rough.

They're really quite clever, these little fellows, watch them taking walking lessons up a plank. When its time to come down, Bruin prefers to jump,- though its much more dignified to walk. Then comes bathing time, and all the honey and milk on their whiskers gets washed away by the hose. Yes, it's a delightful babyhood, under the most ideal conditions, so what more could they ask for?
