

ULSTER HOME GUARD.

Northern Ireland has its Home Guard. As in the rest of the United Kingdom, this volunteer body will supplement the work of the army in defending our shores. They have a distinctive uniform --- but they all have but one aim; to make life very unhealthy for any invader who might get as far as Ulster

MOSQUITO NAVY.

They work while most of us are asleep. That's why we seldom see this little Navy of yachts and cabin cruisers and speedboats. But through the night they patrol the innumerable creeks and inlets around our coasts --- a safeguard against surprise landing. They carry machine guns; and from dusk till dawn they are a part of the defence of Britain

NAVY'S BULLETS.

Another angle on the Navy----- some reasons why so many enemy planes which attack our ships at sea are shot down, even when out of range of R.A.F. fighters. Belts greased and rolled, and guns cleaned and tested, ensure that when the moment comes to let loose into the sky, there shall be no technical hitch. Many an enemy raider would be raiding still if it had not been for the Navy's deadly anti-aircraft fire

GIRLS HARVESTING.

A.R.P. girls in Essex have a perfect passion for work. When they're off duty from Air Raid Precautions they help gather the harvest for victory. We hear that the food situation is so good, that certain rations may be increased for the winter months.
