

H.M.A.S. SYDNEY. -

696

This is the ~~xxnisaxx~~ Australian cruiser Sydney --- in port ~~xxnisaxx~~ after her action ~~with~~ against the Italian cruisers. ~~the~~ H.M.A.S. Sydney sank the Bartholomeo Colleoni; the other Italian cruiser did a Boat Race ~~the~~ ~~commander~~ was Captain Collins.]

And here is another blow to Italy; one of Mussolini's supply ships captured by the Royal Navy. She was sold to Italy before ~~the~~ war --- and her former captain now has the pleasure of running up the British flag again --- over the Italian. Her stores were valued at £150,000 --- ~~and~~ some of it was intended for Abyssinia.

And this is the result of some of the land fighting in the east..... a mixed bag arriving in one of the camps for Italian prisoners. These are just a few more of the Duce's happy subjects who ~~xxnisaxx~~ regret ~~the~~ Italy's entry into the war. Included in this bag was the Italian Major General Lastrucci.
