SOUTH AFRICA.

South Africa sends us this glimpse of the war effort in ~~the~~ Johannesburg. Sturdy sons of Empire flock daily to the Colours -- to join the ranks of the ~~the~~ cousins and brothers in the great British Commonwealth of Nations. All are volunteers..... they march through land in which Nature has planted the richest goldfields in the world --- but they're not allowed to fall out and pick the flowers ~~the~~ KING AND QUEEN.

The King and Queen in London continue the inspection of the areas which have suffered in the nightly bombing of the capital.

They were accompanied by Admiral Sir Edward Evans --- ~~London~~ ~~the~~ ~~the~~ They spoke to A.R.P. officials, and to workmen ~~the~~ engaged in clearing up the mess. It's nice to learn that Berlin will be twice as much of a mess before the end of the war ~~the~~ RIFLE BATTALION.

On parade somewhere in Britain --- a cadet battalion of one of the Rifle Regiments. The full story of Dunkirk and Calais is yet to be told; but when those desperate days are recorded in history the names of the Rifle Regiments will shine out with a passionate brilliance.... their rearguard action which covered the retirement of the British Expeditionary Force parallels in heroism the Charge of the Light Brigade ~~the~~
