BRITISH AND ALLIED FOOTBALL.

The British Army fought a football match against the Allied Armies on Chelsea's football ground, and ^{was} Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands ~~was~~ ^{one} of the distinguished Allied spectators. It was a good game to watch but the British superiority was marked ~~to~~ to the tune of an 8 - 2 victory. ~~Many famous peace time footballers were in the British team,~~ and we hope that yesterday's veterans of the army approved of their ~~showing~~ ^{form}.

SIKORSKI.

General Sikorski accompanied by members of the Polish Government, paid a visit to a naval station somewhere in Britain. His purpose was to decorate officers and men of Polish ships operating with the Royal Navy. They included heroes of Narvik, Dunkirk and Cherbourg.

NEW ZEALAND MARCH.

New Zealand troops did a grand march past in Wellington as a farewell to Lord Malva, the retiring Governor General, who took the salute. This great Dominion has already contributed much to the success of British arms in Africa. Obviously the reserves at home are right up to the standard of the first sample.

CIRCUS. R. G. Shorting.

The circus comes to town in Chicago; and the excitement includes men falling into the water and seals falling out of it. But the big turn was the William Tell act of Mr and Mrs Mansfield. It's a ~~shait~~ challenge to the wives of Britain; let your husband do this to you ~~and make~~ as practice for the Home Guard.
