

GUY'S HOSPITAL.

A special day in the life of Guy's Hospital evacuated to the country. Lord Nuffield was visiting, with Mrs. Edward Murrow, America's representative of Buddles for Britain. That Fund --- ~~particularly the Hollywood Lunch~~, has been providing money for alterations and equipment; in these days Guy's Hospital, like all others, is sorely in need of help.

This was a day of smiles: Lord Nuffield had an ice with positively schoolboy relish.

AMBILANCES.

Cinema goers in Scotland have made a present of two ambulances and equipment to the Red Cross. The presentation was made through the Lord Provost of Edinburgh. The money was received from staffs and audiences of cinemas; at a time when there are so many calls upon the purse an extra spurt like this is really a great effort.

CHURCHILL.

The Prime Minister was accompanied by young King Peter of Jugo-Slavia when he inspected coastal defences in the South East. As you know, Mr. Churchill is a man who likes to try things for himself; he did on this occasion --- he fired one of the guns with characteristic determination; the only pity was that he wasn't aiming at a Nazi.
