

752

BRITAIN'S CAMPAIGN FOR THE TANKS.

The tanks have been on parade in the big cities to give a boost to production speed-up.

At the London Mansion House they were started off by the Lord Mayor. The officer commanding these tanks is Major Barker --- it was his waltzing Matilda's that smashed Italian resistance when the Empire Armies went from Sollum to Benghazi. Every one in Britain and the Empire can help the Tank Campaign --- either with work or money: it's nice to see them in London --- but oh, boy! Let's see them in Berlin! We now give you Major Barker's voice as he broadcast from inside the Tank --- ~~and over to Edinburgh.~~

That was how the Tank Commander in London gave the advance to tanks in Scotland: and when tanks advance you can bet there'll always be Scotsmen aboard.

Now we're going south again --- for another Tank Parade --- this time we have some old friends in the picture --- or rather, some young friends. They're the famous St. Neots' Quads --- Ann, Paul, Ernest and Michael Miles. They had the Mayor there to greet them; But Ann hadn't seen a Mayor before and she wanted to know what Father Christmas was doing out in the summer. I hope you notice they've all got their gas masks. The famous four made it a real afternoon --- they'll be the envy of millions. All the workings of the tanks was explained to them and they were allowed to do everything but drive them.

792
BRITAIN'S CAMPAIGN FOR THE TANKS. (2)

Michael's looking for Mussolini.

to start 1/19
The supreme moment :- the drive through the town.

And the Quads were having the most thrilling ride that any boy or girl could have to-day.

Here's a tip for the Tank Campaign that we might get from the Quads family: let's surprise every body by having four where we only expected one.