JAP FISHING FLEET.

Before the Far Eastern War, Japanese fishing boats were licensed to operate in Canadian Waters. When Japan attacked, these little craft were seized. It is generally understood that the gangsters of the orient used these fishing rights to make charts for the day when they were ready to make their bid for world power

COAST DEFENCES.

Suddenly the New England coast of the United States has come into the orbit of war. Lessons learnt by Britain in repelling air attack are available to America's anti-aircraft Gunners. To-day, along the Eastern seaboard, the guns are on the alert --- a reminder of the danger that threatens by day and night.

MODEL SUBMARINE.

Latest invention from California is a fine flame throwing submarine. Cruising towards a naval base where enemy ships are moored the submarine submerges. The flow of the tide takes it under the surface ships --- the oil is released and chemically detonated. This is a model --- but it seems an idea to be reckoned with in sea warfare.
