

slow.

D 921

THE UPSIDE DOWN ARTIST.

In the town of Dunstable there lives a most ingenious man who has made a reputation of a most unusual kind.

He paints equally well the right way up or upside down and both at once. It must be such fun to be able to juggle with the canvas like this.

Using ~~hands~~ both left and right hands at the same time. What an artist! Really the village street looks as if it's going to be a most interesting place. And when it's finished, it is interesting. For it's the right way up for a change.

Wonder if he could do this equally well the morning after? Perhaps it is the morning after.

And here's a lightning sketch of a dog. The poor fellow must have had a lot of worry to look like this.

Oh! but never mind, this quick-change technician can soon put that right. There it is, hasn't he a lovely head?

But the most unfortunate thing was one model who had got struck like it.

~~But our artist friend has kept the laugh for himself, and his secret is for you~~
But our artist friend holds the surprise card ^{under} ~~in~~ his sleeve - for his ~~secret~~ dog and that's certainly something to smile about.